What do you wish others knew about social work?

A career in social work provides the opportunity to have a voice for particular clients, a region, a province, or a society we live in. Society overall is the foundation for our values, our community, and our strength as a community.

If you could give one piece of advice to the next generation of social workers what would it be?

Maintain your passion by creating a balance between your professional life and your personal life.

Why are you proud to be a social worker?
